Labor and Finance Expert Dr. Audrius J. Girnius Joins Advanced Analytical Consulting Group, Inc. (AACG)

February 14, 2011 - Advanced Analytical Consulting Group, Inc. \(AACG\), an economic, statistical, and computing consulting firm, is pleased to announce the addition of Dr. Audrius Girnius as Senior Economist within the Litigation and Disputes practice.

Dr. Girnius specializes in the application of microeconomics, statistics, and econometrics to complex problems in litigation. He has developed innovative economic and econometric models to analyze a variety of complex issues involving labor and employment, securities, and economic damages. Dr. Girnius has advised clients with discrimination and wage-and-hour (FLSA) lawsuits and has assisted with compensation design. He also has extensive experience with 10b-5 securities litigation and has estimated damages resulting from the bankruptcy of hedge funds. Dr. Girnius' research has been published in peer reviewed journals, and he has spoken at national labor and employment conferences.

"Audrius is an authority on labor and financial economics and has an outstanding reputation assisting law firms and their clients. His extensive experience on a variety of data-intensive and economically rigorous matters makes him an asset to clients who seek creative, scientific answers to their litigation and business questions," said Daniel S. Levy, AACG Founder. "With nearly 15 years of academic and consulting experience, Audrius brings a wealth of client service experience and technical skills to AACG's expanding team of economists."

Prior to joining AACG, Dr. Girnius served as Senior Manager/Director at Grant Thornton and Huron Consulting Group. Dr. Girnius holds a Ph.D. in Economics from The University of Chicago and a B.A. in Economics from the University of Michigan.
